Quintessence

Oral & Craniofacial Tissue Engineering

Editor-in-Chief: Ole T. Jensen

This boundary-breaking journal, designed for both researchers and clinicians, debuted in 2011. Oral & Craniofacial Tissue Engineering crosses multiple disciplinary lines, involving specialties of both dentistry and medicine—including oral and maxillofacial surgery, periodontics, prosthodontics, plastic and reconstructive surgery, otolaryngology, and neurosurgery. The journal publishes articles concerning regeneration of all the tissues of the oral and craniofacial region and provides a central forum for basic science researchers as well as practicing physicians to elucidate advances in regenerative medicine. A journal for the future that begins now, just as the tissue engineering field emerges from its infancy.

Official journal of the Tissue Engineering Society, Chinese Society of Oral Biomedicine, and Japanese Society of Regenerative Medicine

The International Journal of Oral & Maxillofacial Implants

Editor-in-Chief: Steven E. Eckert

The International Journal of Oral & Maxillofacial Implants continues its tradition of publishing timely, original articles on implant-related research and patient care. Internationally recognized for its high editorial and scientific standards, JOMI presents pioneering research, seminal studies, emerging technology, position papers, and consensus reports, as well as the many clinical and therapeutic innovations that ensue as a result of these efforts. The editorial board is composed of recognized opinion leaders in their respective areas of expertise and reflects the international reach of the journal. Under their leadership, JOMI maintains its strong scientific integrity while expanding its influence within the field of implant dentistry.

The American Journal of Esthetic Dentistry

Editor-in-Chief:
Richard J. Simonsen

The American Journal of Esthetic Dentistry launched last year in the wake of an ever-growing demand by increasingly informed patients for high-quality esthetic dental treatment. Like its sister publication, The European Journal of Esthetic Dentistry, it presents clinical articles, beautifully designed and exquisitely produced, that will both educate and inspire readers. A distinguished editorial board has been entrusted with overseeing the quality of the articles and the validity of the techniques presented.

The International Journal of Prosthodontics

Editor-in-Chief: George A. Zarb

Prosthodontics demands a clinical research emphasis on patient- and dentist-mediated concerns in the management of oral rehabilitative needs. It is about making the best clinical decisions, as well as implementing them, to enhance patients' quality of life via applied biologic architecture—a role that far exceeds that of traditional prosthetic dentistry with its emphasis on materials and techniques. The International Journal of Prosthodontics is dedicated to exploring and developing this conceptual shift in the role of today's prosthodontist, clinician, and educator alike. The editorial board is composed of a distinguished team of leading international scholars.

Official journal of the International College of Prosthodontists, International Society for Maxillofacial Rehabilitation, German Society for Prosthodontics and Dental Materials Science, Italian Academy of Prosthetic Dentistry, and Spanish Society of Prosthodontics

The Journal of Adhesive Dentistry

Editors: Jean-François Roulet and Bart Van Meerbeek

New materials and applications in adhesion are profoundly changing the way dentistry is delivered. Bonding techniques, which have long been restricted to the tooth hard tissues, enamel, and dentin, have obvious applications in operative and preventive dentistry as well as in esthetic and pediatric dentistry, prosthodontics, and orthodontics. The current development of adhesive techniques for soft tissues and slow-releasing agents will expand applications to periodontics and oral surgery as well. Scientifically sound, peer-reviewed articles explore the latest innovations in these emerging fields.

Journal of Craniomandibular Function

Editor-in-Chief:
Wolfgang B. Freesmeyer

The emphasis of this journal is on the healthy and pathologic function of the craniomandibular system and the treatment of craniomandibular dysfunction. Its primary goal is to highlight the interdisciplinary aspects of diagnosis and subsequent treatment of craniomandibular dysfunction, thereby intensifying communication between medicine and dentistry. Ultimately, the aim of this practice-oriented journal is to advise clinicians of the most promising treatments available for their patients. Published in a dual English-German format.

ENDO—Endodontic Practice Today

Editors: Antonio Bonaccorso,
Bun San Chong,
Edgar Schäfer, and
Luc van der Sluis

The aim and scope of ENDO is to publish articles relevant to the science and practice of endodontics and interdisciplinary fields. It is intended for dental practitioners with an interest in endodontics, including specialist endodontists. Its purpose is to act as a bridge between original science and clinical practice. The journal will also include contributions on endodontics in relation to periodontics, traumatology, pedodontics, orthodontics, oral surgery, prosthodontics, and implantology.

European Journal of Oral Implantology

Editor-in-Chief: Marco Esposito

EJOI prides itself on presenting evidence-based practical insights in oral implantology to specialists and general practitioners alike. Under the guidance of Dr Marco Esposito and his highly regarded editorial board, this journal encompasses systematic reviews, clinical trials and articles, and case series, with a focus on article quality and substance. Full descriptions and relevant illustrations are included so clinicians can fully understand all procedures presented. The aim of this journal is to provide reliable clinical guidance to practitioners to help them make the best decisions possible for their patients.

Official journal of the British Society of Oral Implantology and the Dutch Society of Oral Implantology

International Journal of Computerized Dentistry

Editors: B. Reiss, K. Wiedhahn, and O. Schenk

This journal explores the myriad innovations in the emerging field of computerized dentistry and how to integrate them into clinical practice. The bulk of the journal is devoted to the science of computer-assisted dentistry, with research articles and clinical reports on all aspects of computer-based diagnostic and therapeutic applications, with special emphasis placed on CAD/CAM and image-processing systems. Articles also address the use of computer-based communication to support patient care, assess the quality of care, and enhance clinical decision-making. The journal is presented in a bilingual format, and each issue offers three types of articles: science-based, application-based, and national society reports.

ANNUAL PUBLICATIONS FROM QUINTESSENCE

Quintessence of Dental Technology 2012

Editor: Sillas Duarte, Jr

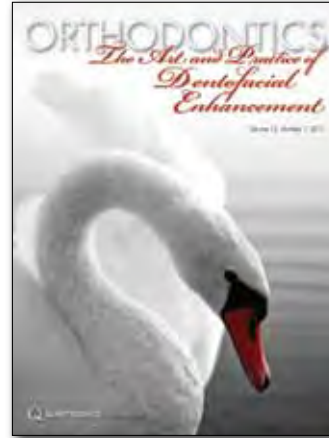

The 35th-anniversary issue of QDT is an impressive compilation of original articles, by some of the masters in esthetic dentistry, on the newest concepts, laboratory techniques, and materials for restorative dentists and dental technicians. Ultraconservative esthetic treatment and nature-inspired restorations are a main focus of this year's issue, which also includes special articles on digital smile design as a tool for treatment planning and the perio-prosthetic connection in treating an ankylosed central incisor. The "State of the Art" article features multidisciplinary smile rehabilitation using ultraconservative esthetic treatment, and "Biomaterials Update" covers fiber posts and composite core buildups. This beautifully produced 35th-anniversary issue will not only educate but will inspire readers to excellence.

ORTHODONTICS: The Art and Practice of Dentofacial Enhancement

Editor: Rafi Romano

ORTHODONTICS: The Art and Practice of Dentofacial Enhancement becomes an annual publication in 2012 to bring readers a year's worth of articles in a single focused issue. The goal of the journal remains the same: to augment the esthetic orthodontic literature with timely research and practical clinical information. To that end, Rafi Romano, editor-in-chief, with the aid of the journal's multidisciplinary editorial board, has selected articles that best address the year's scientific advancements and new trends, products, and techniques in orthodontics and associated specialties in esthetic dentistry. Readers will appreciate the journal's artistic design and its interpretive presentation, which so appropriately showcase the art and practice of dentofacial enhancement.

2012 (Vol 13); 200 pp (approx); color throughout; ISBN 978-0-86715-563-1 (J3000); US $128
